

Photosynthesis is the biological process by which green plants convert light energy into chemical energy stored in g

Chlorophyll, the green pigment in chloroplasts, captures photons. This light energy drives the conversion of CO₂ and

Photosynthesis is the foundation of nearly every ecosystem on Earth. It produces atmospheric oxygen and feeds bo